WANT THE TOLLS REDUCED. Meeting in West Washington Last Night-The Free Bridge Question.

About thirty gentlemen assembled at God-dard's Hall last evening in response to a call for a meeting of citizens, to take action to secure a reduction of tolls on the Aqueduct bridge.

Capt. James Goddard was elected chairman.

and Mr. John Leetch secretary. Capt. Goddard said that as he understood it the purpose of the meeting was to consider the propriety of reducing the tolls upon the Aqueduct bridge. A letter was read from Mr. R. A. Phillips, a land owner on Arlington heights, expressing his sympathy with the objects of the meeting, and declaring that the tolls should be reduced to at least one-third the present rates.

Mr. William H. Tenney offered a preamble and resolutions setting out that the Alexandria Aqueduct bridge company had erected a bridge costing $20,000 on piers built by the United States at a cost of half a million dollars; that for twenty years the company had been collecting tolls at double the rate charged on other toll bridges, and from this source derived a revenue of $10,000 a year-a dividend of fifty per cent on the original investment-to the eat detriment of farmers and land owners of Virginia and visitors to and residents of this city who desired to visit Arlington; that though Congress had passed an act providing for a free oridge the experience of the past rendered it doubtful when the purpose of the act would be carried out, and that the necessity still remained of retieving a long-suffering people of the oppression of excessive toils. The resolutions provided that Congress be petitioned to pass an act making a uniform reduction of fifty per cent in the bridge tolls and that a committee of three be appointed to present the matter to Congress. Mr. John Stake and Mr. Tenney spoke in favor of the action proposed, and the resolutions were adopted. Mr. Tenney congratulated the meeting that such cases. They also prevent malaria, and are a protection against typics fever or diseases over the Potomac—the Long bridge, but this part of the District had only a toll bridge, which he said, exacted enormous tolls. The poor colored people of Freedman's village who came over to work on the wharves had to pay two cents each. "As President Hayes said when he received news that he was not elected," observed for the poor negroes," A poor farmer, with a one-horse load of wood, had to pay 25 cents; visitors to Arlington in two-horse carriages had ago to build a free bridge, an undercurrent of some kind had defeated the objects of the bill. Might not this bill meet the same fate? Might not this sagacious bridge company discover some defect in it? At any rate, the delay in periecting title, and the time required to let the contract and build the bridge, would consume a year or two, and meanwhile these excessive toils would be exacted unless Congress would respond to their petition.

Messrs. W. H. Tenney, John Leetch and Jos. Birch were appointed as the committee pro-

A Well-Played and Exciting Game Between the Nationals and the Detroits. The last of this series of ball games between the Detroits and Nationals yesterday evening resulted in a tie of 1 to 1 after thirteen full innerror. Barr unfortunately sent three men to dangerous element residing there. Otherwise he pitched a great game. Each side made but six hits, but the Detroits were clearly outfielded by the Nationals, who were again themselves with glory this week, although they the Kansas City and were defeated simply by chance by a score of 2 to 1 in thirteen innings. Thursday the Detroits again won by a score of 3 to 2 in eleven innings, but it was a chance victory. Yesterday's game was a tie in thirteen innings. Kinslow, a new catcher for the Nationals, appeared behind Barr yesterday and did well up to the third inning, when he hurt a finger by cleverly stopping a badly pitched ball. Gilligan took his place and played, as he always does, perfectly.
Gladmon made a beautiful stop yesterday. The ball was sent to his feet like a cannon ball, but it was picked up in the same way it was hit, and the batter was retired. Knowles is playing remarkably well at second base. He had a chance to win the game yester-day by making a hit, which would have brought in Baker, who had reached third. He did his up at the seventh precinct station charged with best, but Getzein was pitching a great game. Hanlon, the Detroit center fielder, is a good one. He kept our boys from making a number of runs. His long runs and jumps are worth something, for he doesn't drop the ball if his hands reach it. Carroli plays well with the left field tence. He gauges the bound of the ball from the tence with great accuracy and is very apt to catch a man who is trying to make two bases on a

A MONTGOMERY COUNTY TRAGEDY Body Found and Supposed to be Haviland's Leads to the Discovery of Another Murder.

A singular discovery was made yesterday at the "Four Corners," or what is known as "The Cross Roads," on the 7th street road, in Montgomery county, Md., by two young men, Messrs. Batcheler and Heffner, who were hunting for lost sheep. They found a detached human skull, with a bullet hole through it. Soon afterwards the remains of the man to whom the skull belonged were found under a pile of pine branches and young trees, which appeared to have been cut for the purpose of hiding it from view. The news of the discovery spread rapidly, and was naturally coupled at once with the disappearance of Philip Haviland, the miller, who was supposed to have been mur-dered near that spot last December. The articles of clothing found with the remains and the or clothing found with the remains and the contents of the pockets were closely examined, and found not to correspond with what should have been found on the person of Mr. Haviland. A pistol, some cartridges, a shoe and an old boot split down in front were found near the body, and none of these things corresponded with the belongings of Haviland. It was discovered that the ball found in the skull fitted the pistol as well as the built below in the the pistol as well as the bullet hole in the skull. These facts served to mystliy still further the citizens in that neighborhood who de-termined to send to Coroner Condict, who resides near the village of Sligo.

THE CORONER'S INVESTIGATION. Coronor Condict, accompanied by Mr. Charles Graeves, of Sligo, at once repaired to the scene and a jury of inquest was empanneled, consisting of Messrs. A. C. Flack, foreman, T. E. Childs, K. H. Perry, Charles Graeves, John Heffner, G. Turner, Wm. Lincoln, George Cubit, J. Baker, Alfred Lincoln, Burke Lincoln, and James Clark. Eight witnesses, most of them colored, were heard. It was developed that this case had nothing whatever to do, so far as yet is known, with the Haviland mystery. It was shown that a larceny of $45 had been committed at the house of Allen Bowie, colored. Another young colored man named Arthur Bowie alias Tolliver was suspected of the larceny because he had been missing since the fact became known. The robbery was discovered early in April. The pistol found on the deceased, the ammunition, and a gold plated watch chain were also recognized as having been stolen at the same time the money was stolen. The money was hidden in the garret story of Allen Bowie's house in an old pine box, and it was probably some time after the theit was committed before it became known. Arthur Tolliver, who was suspected, it appears was pursued by the owner, and as he was afterwards missing, it was taken for granted that he had escaped, and had succeeded in keeping himself away ever since that time. ALLEN BOWIE'S SONS ARRESTED.

Allen Bowie has a number of sons. One is Clagett Bowie, another Sidney Bowie, another Allen Bowie, jr., another Larim Bowie, and another who will be in custody before the jury meets again to-day. The theory on which the vided for in the resolutions. The chairman of arrests have been made is that Tolliver was pursued and suffered at the hands of his purthe meeting, Capt. Goddard, was also added to suers and that the matter was kept secret until this time. The owner of the stolen property testified yesterday that he never recovered his money. The impression made upon the minds of the jury was that the party in pursuit of the thief appropriated the property to his own use, and kept the secret. Coroner Condict, after hearing all he could yesterday of the contradictory testimony, dismissed the jury until today at three o'clock, when other witnesses are ings had been played. It was one of the most to be heard. These developments have again exciting contests ever witnessed on a ball field.

The Nationals did not make a single fielding. The Nationals did not make a single fielding must be made to rid the community of the first base on balls, and one of them in the fourth inning made the run which tied the home team.
Otherwise he pitched a great game. Fuch side nothing undone to that end.
